Social inclusion charity Ashford Place appoint two new trustees

The Cricklewood-based social inclusion charity Ashford Place announced two new appointments to the board of Trustees last week.

Ashford Place work to help people in Brent experiencing isolation, dementia, mental health issues and homelessness.

Doctor Ethie Kong, a GP for over 30 years and previously Chair of Brent CCG, the GP-led organisation responsible for planning and commissioning many of the health services for people living in Brent, has joined the board. She will also form part of the Health and Well Being Committee, where she will be working with fellow Trustee Chris Ingram, a former Head of Public Health with NHS England and NHS Improvement VP and currently the Centre Leader of the Windsor Centre for outpatient diagnostics, oncology and wellbeing services at Genesis.

In 2017 TheMulan Foundation Network awarded Dr. Kong for her contribution to healthcare and tackling health inequalities. In 2018, she was celebrated and awarded by NHS London Leadership Academy for making a difference to the organisation she was leading and was recognised as an outstanding woman leader in the NHS.

William Pearce, a Chartered Accountant & Auditor for Blick Rothenberg, the tax, accounting and business advisory firm, has also joined the board taking the role of Treasurer.

As Treasurer he will lead the Resource Committee working alongside fellow Trustee and Accountant Jennie Hinton who is Head of Finance at Thames21.

Co-Chairs Mark Fox and Carey Fitzgerald commented: "We are delighted to have a fully qualified auditor from a well-known accountancy firm join us as our Treasurer, ensuring our financial reporting is transparent and reliable."

Highly experienced

"We also welcome a highly experienced GP who is well known in Brent, further bolstering our expertise in leading the work on healthcare that is so badly needed post the pandemic."

Both appointments will take place with immediate effect.

Ashford Place has had to take its activities online during the crisis and continue to support their clients working with initiatives like their "In Conversation With..." series. This is a regular online get together with well known celebrities who chat to isolated clients via Zoom. Actress and Ashford Place Ambassador Michelle Collins, actors Christopher Biggins and Lesley Joseph, former world champion Irish dancer and actress/writer Maria Mcateer, internationally renowned Irish casting director Ros Hubbard and His Excellency Ambassador Adrian O'Neill, Ambassador of Ireland to Great Britain are among those to already have taken part.
